When I made the gift I asked my broker what I should do to have the debentures in my son's name. The broker said that the debentures are "bearer certificates" and that he cannot do anything.

Is this correct? Will the gift be recognized for tax

A. The gift of the debentures will be recognized for tax purposes, provided that it is designated as a gift. That should be done in writing. And a gifttax return should be filed.

DAILY NEWSPAPER CIRCULATION IS NOW 58,604,942 - LARGEST IN THE HISTORY OF THE NEWSPAPER INDUSTRY!

The latest count (Audit Bureau of Circulations - six months ending March 31, 1959) showed that daily newspaper circulation has reached an all-time high. The combined daily newspaper circulation of the U.S. and Canada is also a new record - 62,471,247.

This strong testimonial to the magnetic appeal of the daily newspaper is important to both national and local advertisers. It means that their messages have an even greater opportunity to be seen, examined and acted upon.

With its record net paid circulation, the daily newspaper, more than ever, earns its title as the Total Selling Medium. It sells more people than ever from maker to consumer. If you want to penetrate deep into a sea of buyers, use the daily newspaper-with the highest total audited circulation ever! The Total Selling Medium is the Daily Newspaper.

Pioneering Lags

The real threat to America in today's world comes not from a collection of "new military hardware," says Texas Senator Lyndon B. Johnson, Senate majority leader.

It comes, instead, he says, from "the fact that we have fallen behind in what has been an American specialty from the beginning-pioneering."

Well said, Senator!

Pioneering has been America's trade mark from the beginning. It was introduced by dreamers and questioners who pondered the possibity of a new world over the horizon and dared to seek it.

Then came other pioneers who carved a foothold in the forests of the Atlantic seaboard, edged westward to the Pacific: demanded independence from the Old World and freedom in the New World to develop in whatever direction their aptitude and interest moved them.

Pioneering is our heritage, indeed. And Senator Johnson does well in reminding us of it.

How To Aggravate A Labor Dispute

bor negotiations were working to their climax, the Senate Subcommittee on Antitrust and Monoploy - commonly called the Kefauver committee - put out a report alleging that steel prices were "too high." It supported this thesis with some elaborate statistics claiming that since 1947-49 steel prices have risen almost 80% while labor costs in the steel industry have gone up only about

Well, now those "official" statistics have been put under a microscope in the Review of Economics and Statistics, a publication of the Department of Economics at Harvard. And seen up close, they look quite different.

The writer of the Review article, Harleston R. Wood, shows that the comparisons are, to put it mildly, slightly, askew. The labor costs index used by the Kefauver committee includes only the actual wages paid to hourly employes, and thus does not include the increasing cost of so-called fringe benefits, such as pensions and insurance. Moreover, it does not include any of the cost of salaried employes. These things left out are hardly negligible in the "labor costs" of running a steel company.

Mr. Wood also shows that the index used for measuring the prices of steel is, shall we say, slightly inadequate. The legerdemain consists of using an average of basic prices for a few selected steel products, each weighted according

Earlier this year, when the steel la- to the relative shipments of these products back in 1937-40 and in 1946-48 or more than ten years ago. This doesn't take into account the numerous changes in the pattern of steel consumption since the base periods.

> Once you change the cost index to cover as nearly as possible total employment costs, and the steel price index to measure as nearly as possible actual prices realized by the industry. the comparison looks quite different. On this new basis, Mr. Wood figures that total labor costs are up nearly 72%. The increase in steel prices, measured in this fashion, comes to only about 59%.

We are not about to enter into an argument between two statisticians as to which set of figures is "correct."

What is significant here is that the Kefauver committee put out a set of figures that are, at the very least, open to challenge by competent experts and that the committee's "official" figures received a great deal of publicity.

It would surely be too much to say that the Kefauver groups' "findings" were responsible for the deadlock in the steel negotiations. But they did heip harden the attitude of the union negotiators and they did play a political role in coloring public attitudes towards the dispute. A good lesson, we would think. in how a careless Congresssional committee can aggravate a labor dispute.

We appeal to you in the name of simple humanity, youth, and life itself. As urgently as possible, we ask you to use the great prestige and influence you enjoy in your friendly relations with the sovereign authorities of Hungary to spare the lives of these unfortunate students. We beg you to keep in mind that whatever the charges against them, they are too young for so severe a punishment, or were so at the time of their offense.

This we ask on behalf of all the students of the world and in accordance with the Universal Declaration of Human Rights which your country has helped to phrase and is committed to honor.

The New Role - Undersecretary Robert Murphy spelled out the importance that the State Department attaches to winning the goodwill of Russian women in a speech to a group of New York Republican women. He told them: "There is one feature in East-West relations which has a special significance and a particular interest to you - the important role women now play in the Soviet Union.

"We consider this development favorable to our objectives because we believe the vast majority of Soviet women, after the terrible experience of World War II, ardently desire peace. We are starting a campaign to let these women know that we agree with them and want their friendship." Noting that "Soviet leaders, particularly Khrushchev, are giving special attention to the women of the country," Murphy cited the following revealing statistics on the role they have attained in Russia:

"Holding a 55 percent majority of the population as a whole, women form an estimated 60 percent of the collective farm-labor forces. They compromise 57 percent of all economists and statisticians; 70 percent of all primary and middle school teachers and 75 percent of all doctors. Even in such difficult and specialized professions as engineering they take up approximately onethird of the total.

"All of these factors taken together indicate that the role of women in the USSR is in some ways greater than in many Western countries, and that their influence on the course of events inside the Soviet Union is likely to increase still further in the future."

One notable example of this stressed by Murphy is "the influence of Madam Khrushchev on her husband, and the presence of the first woman on the 14-member Presidium of the Central Committee."

If we are honest with ourselves, most of us at one time or another would admit to a sneaking sympathy for Scrooge. We keep dragging our feet, reluctant to be swept into the pre-Christmas maelstrom.

We're doing all right in the daily routine that keeps our hands and minds busy with routine affairs and leaves our emotions quite untouched. We may be neither exstatically happy nor desparately sad, but we're making it quite comfortably from one day to another and hate to disturb the status quo.

It's much less disturbing to "Bah! Humbug!" or in modern lingo "There's too much commercialism in Christmas" than to get personally involved. Much safer to go around encased in the armour of indifference than to wear your heart on your sleeve where it's very and start feeling.

But as to Scrooge, the ghost of Christmas Past comes to all of us. We may ignore the decorations going up and the Christmas tree coming in, but with the first Christmas gifts To find a gift that fits both your budget and the person it's intended for takes some concentrated thinking about the person involved.

> The Wyckoff Shopper

THIS is a Christmas for being on your toes . . . or A. F. Everitt Class, St. John's at least "standing on your own two feet," beautifully Lutheran at home of Miss Fran- shod. I came to this conclusion after a chat with Carl Rohrbach, head of our Wyckoff shoe department, because not only does HE have news . . . his entire department is bulging over with "NEWS."

NEW are the glamorous evening slippers for those who expect to have a real ball this holiday season. Carl has lovely plastic T-strap pumps with rhinestone trim; gold cloth pumps with leather trim, and wonderful black velvet slippers with gold and black heels, or shimmery jewels. They aren't expensive either. All of this "foot finery" is priced at only 10.99 and 11.99.

We are also stocking a huge line of house and bouard Dishman, North Sixth St., doir slippers for every member of the family. Everpopular with the gals are the oh-so-cute-and-comfortable O'Omphies, priced at 3.95 and 5.95. A bit more sophisticated, but so well styled they are always favorites with fastidious women, are the Daniel Green slippers priced from 5.00 to 6.50. And here's real, extra-special news for the youngsters: Wyckoff's is now selling the genuine, authentic ROY ROGERS COWBOY BOOTS, in sizes 10 to 3, at post home, East Strougsburg. priced from 5.95 to 7.95. This came about, I imagine. as a result of Carl's meeting with Roy Rogers when he and I went to Allentown recently and dined with Roy and his pretty wife, Dale Evans, at the Hotel Traylor. Meticulously made, and handsomely styled, these boots really give good support to little feet. They're attractive too, boasting all sorts of colorful decorations. In a choice of brown or black, they'd be a very welcome addition to the wardrobe of any buckaroo.

> Our shoe department really has everything the family might need for putting its best foot forward . . . even in cold, blizzardy, rainy weather. Cold weather boots for the ladies are priced from 8.95 to 14.95 . . . and there are many types and prices for everyone in the household ranging in size from the baby right up to Dad himself.

> I thought you'd be interested in hearing about all this . . . particularly the new Roy Rogers wear . . . because it seems to me that smart, substantial foot-gear is the best foundation of all for building a MERRY CHRISTMAS. Whatever you give, SHOP WYCKOFF'S, where "THRIFT" and "GIFT" are HOLIDAY TWINS.

> Wasn't Santa's arrival fun? I don't know when I've enjoyed anything more . . . and I can't remember ever having seen such an exciting sea of children's faces! Santa's caboose was on a siding at Crystal and Washington streets, but from the platform one looked out upon hundreds and hundreds of children, and their parents, jammed together like the proverbial sardines in a can, as far as the station platform and beyond.

> I'd never been in a caboose before, and the Lackawanna Railroad had provided Santa with a real beauty. Entirely of steel, it was painted red inside, and I'll bet Santa liked that! Inside the door was his map of the world, framed in holly; hanging against the wall was his bright red flannel nightshirt; on the desk was his ledger with the names of girls and boys from all sections of Monroe County; in one long row were the tiny feed bags for his reindeer, each filled to overflowing with straw. and each lettered with the name of the owner. At either side were steel ladders leading up to Santa's private couches from where he could see everything going on in the world outside. What a view from these seats near the ceiling! And wasn't the

> I think this year's arrival was an exciting new experience for us all . . . and we at Wyckoff's extend our gratitude to everyone concerned for Santa's happy, comfortable trip, and to Chet Miller and Ernie Transue, of WVPO, who made it possible to broadcast his exciting arrival.

To my the first so-called eleven was the best game In and game out for their respective schools would be a downright lie. After all, we only glimpsed most of them once or twice this year. And we mustn't forget they played 10-game schedules.

By and large, though, they figured prominently in whatever success their teams enjoyed.

Especially if the likes of the would have any trouble molding and Arkansas of the Washington and Arkansas of the Was of Schouppe, Patella, Reish, Cole, Rohner and Konoir were around to break into the lineup at a minute's notice.

The "dream" backfield of Roeder, Schoonover, Ajygin and Jones would delight any tutor of the grid sport. Of course, having Russell, Abruzzese, Cole and Becker ready for duty wouldn't hurt matters any.

DA Officials To Testify In Union Probe

PERLADELPHIA (AP)-The di exist attorney's office said Monday 2 would allow its top officials to be called as witnesses for Teamsters Local 107 whose leaders are accused of defrauding the union. Paci M. Chalfin, first assistant district attorney, told Common Pleas Judge Joseph E. Gold that his office agreed to waive claimed immunity from testifying to 'properly expedite justice.' Raymond Cohen, secretary-treasurer and business manager of the 14,000-member local—one of the biggest in the teamsters-and six others were indicted by the September grand jury.

Samuel Dash, himself a former Philadelphia D. A., and Morton Witkin, lawyers for the defendants, subpensed Dist. Atty. Victor H. Blanc and some of his assistants, along with their records, in an effort to show that the indictments are illegal.

Chalfin told the judge, however, that he still refused to produce the D. A.'s files—and Gold hasn't ruled on whether this must be

Dyer, Strauser Paintings Exhibited At Art Center

My Mrs. David Harriton

THE POCONO ART CENTER seemed well named indeed Sunday night when artists and friends of art gathered to attend the teacher, wove the school's name and Enright who operate it unopening of a new show by Sterling Strauser and Agnes Dyer, both well known local painters in contemporary modes.

The paintings made a harmonious and colorful balance in the long room, the arresting New Hospital lines and patterns of Strauser's pictures, and the abstract de-lineations of Mrs. Dyer's, filled Donated To the room with gayety

Onlookers seemed particular-ly interested in Strauser's Adventists 'Launching," which seemed to indicate a flight into space; his "Wild Day at the Track" with abstracted black racing steeds; the "Subway Station," and, among others, a fantasy called "Escalator." with a facetious sketch of Marcia Clapp De Rocco, like Peter Pan, floating out of the window of the Pocono noon, with Dorothy Strauser and Marcia De Rocco assisting in attending the visitors.

The public is invited to view this exhibition, which will last through the month of December and the New Year holidays. The center is located at 584 Main St., above the Penney Building, Stroudsburg.

Classes for adults and children are continuing as scheduled. Information on activities may be obtained by phoning the center, HA 1-5988, or writing.

New School Installs Two Local Murals

MRS. LEE ROSEN of Stroudsburg RD 2, has designed two of the most unusual non-pictorial murals ever created. They were recently installed in the new Sheepshead Bay High School, Ave. X and Bachelder St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

They were designed and produced by Design-Technics, of Stroudsburg RD 2, and were made at the locad plant. They are composed of more than 4,000 sculptured ceramic tiles, whose bold and luminous colors have the intensity of a stained glass window.

Located on the curved main wall of the lobby and flanking the entrance to the auditorium the murals provide a dramatic ourst of color and light for an area that the architects, Holden, Egan, Wilson & Corser, consider the focal point of the school. Both wings of the building converge at this point and the entrance to the cafeteria is on one of the opposite
